

Integrating Care Between Psychiatrists and Psychotherapists

At Family Therapeutics we believe in the importance of coordinating care for a variety of conditions.

Hundreds of research studies in the areas of psychology and psychiatry have shown that combined treatment with psychotherapy and psychopharmacology produce the most lasting positive results.

We believe in coordinating both schools of care to help our patients achieve success over their condition.

Most of our treatments begin with psychotherapeutic or behavioral interventions and can also include psychotropic medication management when necessary.
